

Fundamentally, passage of this bill is against the will of the informed public, serves no public good, and will harm the fair use rights of private citizens. It will also further erode what little respect the public still has for the FCC.